Harrison 'Victim'

Eugene Harrison saw himself a victim of circumstances Tuesday night right after losing a runoff election for the commission to Thomas Altman by 283 votes, 1,460 to 1,207.

He also vowed to run again.

"If Jerry had lost (Jerry Roberts who is contesting his loss last week to incumbent Ralph Kirk in circuit court) I think I would have won tonight," said Harrison. "But the people of Belle Glade weren't ready to accept the possibility of a majority black city commission."

"If I had won tonight and Jerry wins in circuit court there would be three black commissioners," said Harrison.

Harrison was not bitter after the results were in. Nor was he anything but relaxed. But he did make it quite clear he would still be in the forefront of bringing changes to "my people's" part of the city.

"I think it was a fine race," said Harrison. "I have no regrets except that it came down to a black-white issue. This just proves that Belle Glade has still not been able to elect itself above the black-white issue. This has never been an issue with me."

Harrison admitted before the votes were tallied that he did not "get out" the black vote.

"My race did not depend on me getting out the black vote," said Harrison. "I hope I am going to get a cross section of voters. There are more white people eligible to vote than black who are in town at this time. If they vote on credentials I feel I would win."

While Harrison said he would not run again, he also made it quite clear he would support and actively work for any good candidate who chose to run.

Several reports had Harrison playing a big part in keeping violence down in the black section of town after Ralph Kirk was declared the winner over Jerry Roberts.

"One paper (The Herald) said it was the police," said Harrison. "But Jerry and I were out on the streets until 1:30 in the morning asking people not to do anything foolish."

Altman Wins Closely Watched City Runoff

Thomas Altman, assistant to the city manager of Belle Glade until just before the first election Sept. 10, defeated Eugene Harrison in a runoff Tuesday night, 1,460 to 1,207.

The victory is unofficial until the canvassing board meets Wednesday night, which will be after this newspaper's deadline is passed.

But there doesn't appear to be any chance of last week's fiasco repeating itself. The apparent victory by Jerry Roberts over Ralph Kirk was taken away from Roberts by the canvassing board when 300 extra votes were found on the machine for Kirk 25 hours after the election was over.

City Election Clerk George Young, looking at the vote totals from an angle, announced a total of 106 for Ralph Kirk. When the canvassing board checked the machines at an angle they were read from straight on.

The canvassing board reconvened the following evening and awarded the 300 votes and the election to Kirk.

Roberts has filed an affidavit with the Circuit Court contending that two election persons unknown tampered with the machine. No date for the hearing on the matter has been set.

But this time several changes were made to avoid such a possible mistake.

First, instead of Young peering behind the machine in the dim glow of a flashlight, the machines were turned around to the light. Second, instead of reading the machines at an angle they were read from straight on.

Third, instead of Young reading the total and then announcing it, both Young and his assistant, Dan Bythwood, read the machines together. But they did not announce the totals.

Instead, two more members of the election committee came right behind them and read the totals as well. They too did not announce the results.

Then the poll watchers followed and then the candidates. After that the press was allowed to inspect the machines to make all the pictures it wanted.

Also helping in reading the totals were three new machines supplied by the city. The old machines had received vote totals. The new ones had totals flushed with the rest of the machine.

There were 2,639 votes recorded on all the machines, but only 2,206 votes were cast. This was blamed on improper use of the machines by voters.

Altman jumped off to a big lead on the first machine opened. He allied 655 votes to Harrison's 436, for a lead of 219.

On the second machine Altman made a weak rally, toppling Altman by 53 to 422 to 369. This gave Altman a 166 vote lead going into the last machine.

On the third machine read Altman put the election away, 409 to 345. Altman racked up 27 of the 31 absentee ballots for his final victory margin of 234.

There were a couple other changes made during this election which distinguished it from others. Both candidates strictly observed the law which states that candidates shall not be allowed within 100 yards of the polling area.

As I understand the first election candidates were standing right outside the entrance to the voting booth.

The voter total, which exceeded the first election by more than 500, was posted hourly on a black board outside the fire station.

John B. Boy, president of United States Sugar Corporation, has announced that the Board of Directors recently elected Robert G. Lee vice president of the community affairs, a newly created position.

Lee is well known in the "glades". A native of Miami, he worked for 15 years in the business offices of Bell Telephone Company, eight years as personnel director of the Sugar Growers Cooperative of Belle Glade and has been with the U.S. Sugar Corporation for three and a half years following a brief period with the Palm Beach County Development Board. Lee has served as administrative assistant, assistant to the president and is now community affairs director.

Lee has served as master of ceremonies for a number of Hendry County fair beauty contests; is a past president of the Clewiston Chamber of Commerce; and has been active in other community affairs and projects. He is also a registered lobbyist and has spent considerable time in working for the agricultural industry.

Firemen Almost Quit

South Bay almost lost the services of most of its firemen Tuesday night for lack of fire hydrants, but the volunteers agreed to give the city 90 days to show improvements.

Department Lt. Wilbur Finley told the commissioners the only issue was that the city was shown in February it needed 21 new fire hydrants but he didn't know about it.

While he said hydrants were all the volunteers were asking, he also cited a need for more volunteers and at least one incident when firemen were attacked when answering a call as problems.

"We came to the conclusion," Finley said, "that we still have only been two men. We can't do anything with just a couple of us."

Fire Commissioner Woodrow "Woody" O'Neal seemed surprised by Finley's appearance, saying he was unaware Finley was in the department. He said the city has been working on the problem of upgrading the department.

"We'll take care of our own houses from now on. At this point, I'm only concerned with my house and my sister's house."

Finley, an unsuccessful candidate for the city commission seat won by Don Tanner during the recent city election, said he represented "14 out of 15" firefighters.

He said there are a number of the members of the volunteer organization who left town to attend college or for other reasons.

He said a recent fire drill brought only two firemen to the station in four minutes.

"If that had been a fire," he said, "there would still have only been two men. We can't do anything with just a couple of us."

Here Come de Judge er Chief

When South Bay Police Chief August Dresen was making his rounds, no parking...even when the offender is the municipal judge.

While South Bay Municipal Judge Allen Evers, who doubles as the city attorney, was giving legal counsel to the city fathers during Tuesday night's commission meeting, he was unknowingly becoming the relevant recipient of a $5 parking ticket.

At City Prosecutor Frank J. Kruzhich may wind up paying the fine.

It all started when Dresen arrived at the police station and found Everard's Cadillac parked in a no parking zone behind city hall and ordered Officer Dresen to write a citation on the windshield.

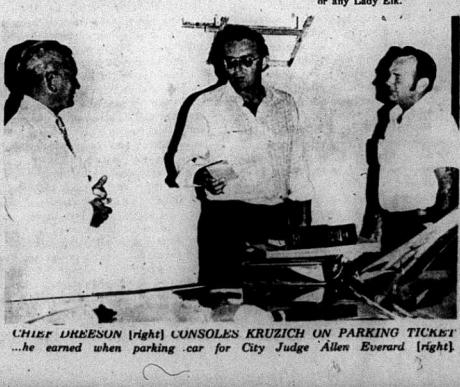

Dresen said he didn't know who owned the car at first, but did find out before Willis wrote the ticket out. "What the hell," he said. "He's no better than anyone else. That's a no parking area and there are signs there."

He will be paid since he had been driving and had actually parked the car.

The police chief said when he had Kruzhich what he'd done, the attorney said he'd probably have to pay since he had been driving and had actually parked the car.

That's More Like It!

Now that was the way an election should be handled.

Unfortunately it was a little like closing the barn door after all the horses had gotten out. But if last week's election had been handled the same way this one was, Belle Glade would have been spared a lot of grief.

All three machines were turned around to the light and read head on. No vote totals were announced until they could be checked, double checked, triple checked and then some.

Nothing was done in a slipshod manner by the dull glow of a flashlight's beam. Yes, it took a terrible mistake to finally make people realize they had to be much more careful.

But if all elections in Belle Glade are handled like this in the future, it will almost have been worth it.

A Hot Time

Luckily, cooler heads prevailed when firefighting problems became a hot issue in South Bay Tuesday night.

City Volunteer Fire Department Lt. Wilbur Finley was understandably upset over the lack of fire hydrants in the city. But if he and other firemen had followed through on their threat to quit they would have only added another problem.

The commission has discussed the needed fire hydrants several times in the past and, according to a survey made in February, the city needs approximately 21 hydrants placed, particularly in the northwest section of town.

For seven months, the firemen have waited for new hydrants, and Finley said broken hydrants in the past have remained broken for as long as six months before being repaired.

But, while they've often been slow and cumbersome as any city commission actions can be at times, the city has taken steps to upgrade the department, as Fire Commissioner Woody O'Neal pointed out.

The ability of a community to fight and control fire must take a high priority, and the commission gave it just that Tuesday night.

Not only does the city to follow through with that priority but it also behoves the firemen to at least give the commission a chance to show what they're willing and able to do.

Eating cypress seeds was supposed to make a man healthy and youthful, at one time.

Comments, Criticisms, and More Reactions

Sometimes you're wrong no matter what you do and the best thing to do is forget about it and go ahead with something else.

I can't do that this time around.

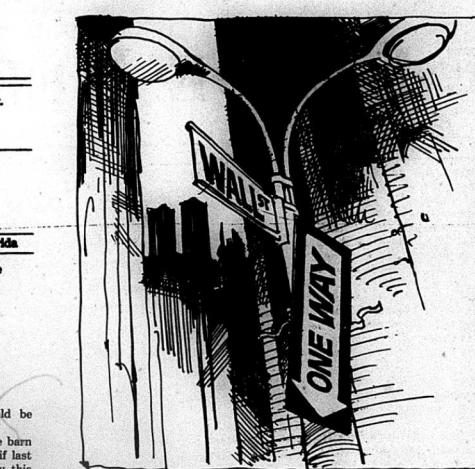

When Glenn and I put out the special edition on the canvassing of the city election last Thursday night, we used a couple of pictures on the front page to illustrate the argument some people were using to justify the "new" voter tally for Jerry Roberts and Ralph Kirk on one of the machines.

Maybe we didn't make it clear enough in the cutline between the two pictures but we were saying this is what some people say could have happened...that the numeral 4, looked out from a certain angle looks like the figure 1.

The Herald wasn't taking the opinion this is actually what happened. As we said in the editorial in the same edition, we don't know. We're not omniscient.

But we did goof, possibly because it was late and we were tired, by not making it clear the pictures were taken by Lee Goldman, a Belle Glade police photographer. Wednesday night instead of Tuesday night.

And, boy, have I heard comments about this one! And I guess it's only natural that in an issue as hot as this one just about every comment reflected the convictions of the person administration."

Tanner and Mrs. Cox echoed his statement, pointing out that a city manager wouldn't be under civil service and would serve at the pleasure of the commission.

Mayo said at one point that if the city hires a good man "great, but if we get a good agitator, it can be a problem."

He said he was of the opinion a city administrator (Grigsby) had sold the commission and the city residents on the idea of installing a sewage system as a package deal "and got it into the city's budget."

O'Neal said he felt the city commissioners, along with the employees now available, can take care of any task the city manager "would" ordinarily handle.

in other business, the commission signed three resolutions applying for qualification for federal flood insurance. South Bay, as was most other municipalities in Palm Beach County, was found to be flood-prone by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

City Attorney Allen Everard explained the move would entitle homeowners in the city to buy federally-insured flood insurance without it, no bank could make loans for construction.

Everard warned the commission an independent engineer would be expensive but said such an engineer would be essential in any litigation against the city's former engineers.

Agreed to pay former city engineer Edward Balmer for one week and two days as severance pay. The city's civil service board recommended two weeks and two days pay because it considered Balmer's job abolished when Utility Caretakers was given the job.

The commission authorized Everard in July to sue the engineers in an effort to solve the city's "problem" with the sewage system. Since the system was installed, there have been numerous complaints of backed up sewer lines and infiltration of ground water.

Berry's World

giving it.

The first reaction to the edition, so far as I'm concerned, came from Jerry Roberts himself. I'm a secret Jerry thinks he's been had by the establishment and he didn't mince words in saying he thought the pictures were part of the plot against him.

Course, Jerry was bitter about the whole thing and if I'd been in his shoes, thinking what he does, I would've been too. At any rate, he wasn't buying any more "honest mistakes."

By the time he left, I guess we were both a little hot. I know I was.

I've said it before and I'll say it again. We try hard at the Herald to be accurate and fair in our news stories and I think we do a pretty fair job but we're human and when you write as much as we do, you'll make more errors than you care to think about.

I've got a pretty thick hide and I can take a lot of criticism and still hand on to my cool but there's one area I guess I'm pretty sensitive about and Jerry managed to find it.

I take a lot of pride in the fact I've never knowingly and willingly distorted a news story. As a professional, that's important to me...and any newsman worth his salt will be.

But any professional will also administer, that as hard as you try, no one can be completely without bias.

When you figure that when a reporter covers a story, even something he doesn't feel strongly about one way or the other, he has to be selective in the way he reports it. He'll gather, say, 150 facts but because he can't possibly make space in his story for all of them, he may report 75. Then, he has to decide which facts he'll lend added importance by putting them in the lead paragraph...which all many people read.

After he's finished, a variety of editors (at least in the large dailies) get their chance to use "editorial judgment" by deciding what kind and size of a headline to use, which page to place it on and where to place it on the page and whether or not a photograph

Last week was a week I don't want to relive any time soon. While it was exciting from a journalistic point of view, it was tiring on this weary old body of mine.

Most people are now saying that there couldn't have been a more costly mistake than was made on the reading of the vote in last Tuesday's election.

Our special edition we put out on the protest and subsequent changing of the results was well worth the effort. Dean and I did the entire thing between the two of us and while neither one of us got to bed Thursday night, we were satisfied the end justified the means.

Oh, it wasn't letter perfect. Anything you put together between 2 a.m. and 9 a.m. in the morning can't be perfect. Plus, we had Friday the 13th and Murphy's Law if anything can go wrong, it will all working against us.

For instance, I don't know how many of you caught it but we mislabeled commission. That's not too bad if you do it in nine point body type. But we did it up brown 48 point headline.

The other glaring technical mistake was in a picture of Ralph Kirk leaning back in his chair while the other commissioners huddled. We were trying to show that while Kirk was an official member of the canvassing board, he did not try to influence its decision one way or the other.

It was a great picture—only one problem. When we went to strip it in it was shot so big to fit the hole we left. So who did we drop out of the picture to make it fit. Sure enough, Ralph Kirk.

But the technical mistakes did not upset me much as some of the "other mistakes" we were supposed to have made. If indeed they were mistakes, I can assure you they were honest mistakes made in the rush of trying to get something out on the street before anybody else.

We have been accused of using "trick photography" on the front page of the supplement. This centered around the two pictures showing the mistake which could have been made in reading the voting machine.

I am thoroughly convinced that it was not trick photography. Now, I can't say 100 per cent because we did not take the pictures. But I trust explicitly the people from whom we got the pictures.

We were also accused of purposely leaving off the time these pictures were taken. They were taken Wednesday, not Tuesday night. At first when informed of this I argued that it really didn't make any difference when they were taken.

But after some reflection—I guess it does matter. If they had been taken Tuesday night they would have been irrefutable proof that the vote was read wrong.

But since they were taken Wednesday night they only proved that at that time, some 25 hours after the election, that was the way the machine read. But as I said—it was an honest mistake and I am willing to claim it since it was I who wrote the cutting.

The paper has gone out of its way to keep from siding editorially one way or the other on this question. We feel that no matter what we say, it would cause hard feelings with one group or the other. We certainly do not want to be responsible for creating more problems than already exist.

What we are suggesting is in presenting all the facts as clearly and as honestly as possible.

As I said in my column in the special edition—let's have our fights in the courts, not in the streets.

Enough said.

From time to time we have problems with circulation. And it is frustrating. But we ran into a situation over the weekend which makes us feel a little better.

A friend of mine just recently moved to the Fort Lauderdale area. They hadn't been settled for more than a couple days when the Fort Lauderdale News called and asked if they would like to take the newspaper.

Well, my friend was terribly impressed with this and let me know that at least one newspaper in the state was on the ball.

However, a whole week went by before a representative of the paper stopped by. And since they stopped by to sign my friend up in the middle of the week they couldn't pro-rate the paper for the rest of the week, but that she would get the next copy of her Fort Lauderdale News Monday morning.

The order as placed was the Fort Lauderdale News, both during the week and on the weekend.

Well, come first thing Monday morning she got a paper all right. But it was the Broward County News. She kept getting that through the week, but come the weekend no newspaper was delivered at all.

Then the Fort Lauderdale News came back and wanted to collect. Well, my friend explained the mixup and told the paper that when she got her the correct edition she would pay them for everything.

So what happens the next day? Right, her paper was stopped completely.

Ah yes, even the biggies make mistakes.

in question has been mentioned and what kind of stories have been written.

I guess it all goes back to the question, "Yes, but what have you done for us lately?"

Every once in awhile, I receive a news release or see something so stupid I figure that now I've heard it all...then something else comes up to reaffirm my doubts about the intelligence of people in general.

The latest was a news release I received this morning about the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission's latest crusade.

Now they're taking out after bookmatches...honest, cross my heart.

I'd be the first to agree with anyone claiming bookmatches are perverse little critters. I generally call 'em gopher matches because more often than not, when I'm trying to light a cigarette with one, I have to go for another one.

Matter of fact, they light so seldom, I can't imagine many things which could possibly be less safe...but the guv-mint says they're unsafe so I guess that's it. Next, some one'll come up with the idea they cause cancer, high blood pressure, heart disease and dropsy.

Oh well, back to the flint and steel.

Editorial judgment has to be used at every step, and although we try to be professional in that judgment, bias is bound to creep in occasionally.

But to accuse a newsman of intentionally manipulating the news is to offer him the worst kind of insult. You're taking a shot at his professional integrity and that's why I got a little hot the other day.

While I'm laboring the subject, another criticism newsmen get a little tired of hearing is that we're always prying stories about everyone but the critic, or his or her group.

One answer to that is to haul out the clippings file and show the critic how many times he or she or the group

Suffolk Resolves Endorsed

By Jerome Turk & Edward Walsh

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17, 1774—Congress today solidly backed the defiant citizens of the Boston area.

There were cheers and applause inside Carpenter's Hall as some 50 delegates from 12 colonies endorsed the "Suffolk Resolves." This slap at the British parliament came sharply and swiftly because of a solitary horseman who just yesterday clattered through the cobblestone streets of this city.

We were there when he strode into Daniel Smith's new City Tavern. His clothes were powdered with fresh trail dust, his boots muddied. He's not a tall man, but broad across the shoulders, agile and strong, dark and bold-eyed as a Mohawk.

"Samuel Adams from Massachusetts," the stranger said hoarsely to the tavern keeper. "Where can I find him?"

"In session at Carpenter's Hall," Smith answered, handing him a quenching ale.

As Smith passed our table we tugged at his apron and asked the name of this impressive stranger.

Leaning close, he whispered, "Revere. That's Revere. He's been here before."

Durable as a cossack in the saddle and as quick to ride, 39-year-old Paul Revere has spurned his way on dozens of trips in behalf of Sam Adams and friends. He's the most trusted courier of Boston's Sons of Liberty. Even his great gifts as an engraver have been turned into propaganda tools for the patriots.

Introducing ourselves by way of Smith's fine ale, we moved over to the road-weary courier.

"I left on the 11th of September," he told us, tersely adding that he averaged better than 60 miles a day on this wild 340-mile dash from Boston to Philadelphia. But we simply could not pull any more information from the taciturn Revere about his journey or the reasons for it.

My colleague Turk decided on a new tack. He questioned Revere about his famous engraving of four years ago depicting the Boston massacre. With almost offensive frankness, Turk asked if the picture doesn't falsely show Captain Preston waving his sword BEHIND his squad of British soldiers, when he had actually stood between them and the mob.

Revere smiled faintly and took a deep draught of the pewter mug.

"Preston was defended by your own John Adams. And he was acquitted at the trial which proved the soldiers fired sporadically when physically attacked. He never gave an order to shoot. Why did you portray the soldiers firing a volley into the crowd?"

Revere wiped his lips dry with his cuff, aiming a look at us as intimating as a flintlock. With that he left.

Revere must have delivered a copy of the Suffolk Resolves to Sam Adams minutes later. They had been drawn up by an assembly of citizens in Suffolk County, in which Boston is located. No semi-official body had ever before so publicly defied Britain.

The Resolves scathingly denounce the five Intolerable Acts enacted earlier this year by Parliament. They also declare that Boston-area citizens will arm themselves, refuse to deliver collected taxes to the crown and ignore the court system.

Sam Adams maneuvered the Resolves to the floor, where the first continental Congress today endorsed them by an overwhelming majority.

Joseph Galloway privately feels the Suffolk Resolves amount to "a complete declaration of war against Great Britain."

"This is one of the happiest days of my life," John Adams is telling friends this evening. "This day convinced me that America will support Massachusetts or perish with her."

Paul Revere has already mounted up and whipped his horse north, bearing the news. We feel sure he'll soon be riding again for the Sons of Liberty.

My colleague Turk decided on a new tack. He questioned Revere about

Hancock-Cunningham

Wanda Jill Hancock became the bride of George Michael Cunningham Sept. 6 in a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Stephen L. Cloud at the First Baptist Church of Belle Glade.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jack Cunningham Sr. of 1032 S.E. Fourth Street and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Roger Cunningham Sr. of 226 Royal Palm Drive.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mike York of Belle Glade served the groom as best man. Peggy Johnson served her sister as matron of honor while Jan Hancock, also the bride's sister, and Debbie Sprinkle, all of Belle Glade, were bridesmaids.

Stefanie Aboud, the cousin of the groom, came from Immokalee to act as flower girl while Allen Conger Jr. of Belle Glade, the cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Others were Dennis Kinlaw and Mickey Grindstaff, both of Belle Glade.

The altar was decorated with pyramid candelabras on each side of the kneeling bench and centered was an arch candelabra with palms on each side and the background.

Mrs. Helen Youngblood, the organist, and Mrs. Pat Steele, the soloist, provided the musical program, featuring the Wedding Song, Because and Lord's Prayer.

The bride wore a gown of white chun lace and a soft organza chiffon. The chun lace enhanced the empire bodice trimmed in small white venise lace. The lace graced the full puffed white sleeves. The cuff of the sleeves was of white organza also trimmed with white venise lace and a small white ruffle. From the empire line of the gown was a semi-gathered white organza skirt with a demilune train accented with the venise lace bordering the skirt.

She wore a white chapeau of English satiny tulle adorned with white chun lace. The bride carried a cascade-shaped bouquet of miniature white carnations, centered with a white orchid. She wore a sixpence in her shoe, a linen handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, a diamond pendant belonging to her sister and the traditional blue garter.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore identical gowns of light blue jersey knit with white lace bodices which featured double cape sleeves and low round necklines.

The formal length gowns were slightly gathered. They wore picture hats with bands of matching streamers and daisies attached.

Their flowers were a spring bouquet with daisies, carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

The bride's mother dressed like the other attendants. She wore a lace headpiece with matching accessories and carried pastel flowers in a wicker basket.

The reception was held at the social hall of the First Baptist Church. The assistants were Mrs. Jamie Harville, Mrs. Dot Conway, Kim Harville and Cindy Conway.

The bride's seating arrangement of daisies, carnations and baby's breath with white candles ornamented the bride's table, which was covered in white lace over satin.

A three-tier wedding cake with white Greenie columns graced one end of the table. The cake was centered with a miniature bride and groom.

The table also held a crystal punch bowl and mints and nuts were served from silver trays and compote.

Miss Leticia Goforth kept the bride's book.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of aqua knit with matching accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of coral crepe with matching accessories and wore a white orchid corsage.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J.R. Young Sr., grandmother of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Chapman and son of Sylvester, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayes of Miami; Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Cunningham of Loxahatchee; Mrs. Jean Edward of West Palm Beach; Mrs. Eleanor Aboud and son of Immokalee.

The couple made their wedding trip to Fort Myers Beach and are making their new residence in Belle Glade.

The bride's travelling outfit consisted of a navy pant suit with matching accessories. Her white orchid corsage was lifted from her wedding bouquet.

...as Wee Care staff members learn how to treat these and other types of injuries on a first aid basis Saturday

Hendrix To Speak

School board member Daniel V. Hendrix will speak at 7 p.m. Friday at the Belle Glade Lions Club for the evening to watch the Glades Central Raiders opening game against Atlantic High School.

Hendrix is running for re-election to his second term in the Palm Beach County school Board and said Monday his will be part of his campaign efforts.

"I was originally scheduled to begin speaking at 7:30," Hendrix said, "but when I found out this was the opening of the football season, I suggested 7 p.m. instead."

"I'm a football fan myself," he said, "and I'm looking forward to watching the game, so I wouldn't want to stop anyone else from seeing it."

Hendrix is an instructor of mathematics at Palm Beach senior College.

Rotary Governor Speaks

The Rotary District 699 governor told Belle Glade Rotarians here last week Rotary is growing more and more popular in other countries and is as strong in Korea as it is around the world.

William C. Lewis spoke to the local Rotarians on how Rotary has grown internationally and shared some of his experiences at a recent assembly attended by Rotarians from around the world.

"Rotary is now active in every country in the world except behind the Iron Curtain," Lewis told the club members.

He said he had talked with Rotarians from England, Germany, Austria, Japan and Korea.

"One man from India came to the assembly," he said, "who had just finished building a hospital in his area. He came with his wife and a retinue of servants to prepare his meals according to the Hindu religion."

Lewis is an attorney who has been a member of the Coral Gables Rotary Club since 1961, where he has served as bulletin editor, program chairman, director of national services and president.

Earl G. Bowell said the Secretary of Agriculture will主持召开 a meeting to make payments for the 1974 crop of sugar cane since the act doesn't expire until Dec. 31 but no authority exists to make payment for or regulate wages for any phase of the harvesting of the 1975 crop.

"This applies," he said, "regardless of the date such act was performed on the 1975 crop. For example, on the 1975 crop, the wage rates shall be as agreed upon between the worker and farm operator, but not less than the required wages set forth in the fair labor standards act, if applicable, or other state statutes."

The rates announced by the department on Aug. 21, "Basis of Wages," which are effective Sept. 20, are applicable only to 1974-1975 harvest work including any such work performed after December 31, 1974."

The public is always welcome at Audubon meeting and field trips.

Charles Ward, owner of Whites Auto Store on Main Street, and Sandra Chamblee got together in Ward's store Monday to kick off ticket sales for a spaghetti dinner. The dinner is being sponsored by the Belle Glade Lions Club and Ward said the proceeds will go to the Junior Woman's Club cancer drive. Mrs. Chamblee said the dinner will have raised $1,000 to $1,200 to drive the cancer drive. Tickets for the spaghetti dinner, set for 145 p.m., Oct. 13 at the civic center, may be purchased for $2.50 each from juniors or from seniors. They may also be purchased at the door.

Audubons Meet

From The Bottom of the Grand Canyon is the unique point of view for the first program meeting of the season for the Lake Okeechobee Audubon Society. This meeting will be at 8 p.m. Sept. 26, at the Methodist Church in Clewiston.

Mrs. Fred C. Sikes of Clewiston will show slides taken on a Colorado River trip. They should be both beautiful and exciting.

Plans will be completed for a field trip to be held and the number of birds are now in the nearby Glades areas.

The public is always welcome at Audubon meeting and field trips.

Wee Care Staff Studies First Aid

Staff members of Wee Care Day Care Center received an eight-hour first aid course Saturday, learning how to patch up wounds, treat for shock and splint broken bones.

Working in pairs, the ten staff members, including director William Grear, were taking part in a multi-media course being offered by the Red Cross and taught by David Clark of 620 S.W. Sixth St.

Clark, a chemist at the Quaker Oats furfur plant here in Belle Glade, said he is offering to teach the multi-media course to any group which can get as many as six students together.

Teaching the Wee Care staff, Clark used lecture, a film, instructional booklet and actual practice, giving the multi-media course its name.

He said the course can be taught in one eight-hour segment, as the staff was taking it, in two four-hour segments, four two-hour or eight one-hour segments.

But he said the Red Cross has found through research that when the course is broken into more than two sessions, much of the material is forgotten by the students before they take the test at the end of the eight hours.

"I don't have the exact statistics," Clark said, "but they've found people who take the course in one eight-hour session still can answer something like 60 per cent of the questions on the test two years later.

"But when the course is broken down into four two-hour sessions," he said, "they generally forget 40 per cent of the material by the time they take the test."

Although Clark is instructing the first aid courses on his own time, he said he has received support of Quaker Oats, which paid for the films he uses. He said Quaker Oats makes it a matter of policy to encourage employee involvement in the community.

Wee Care Director William Grear said he wanted the Wee Care staff to take the first aid course in case of an emergency at the day care center.

He said he split the staff in half, with ten members taking the course Saturday and the other ten taking it another time.

While Grear and the other staff members were working on the course, a small boy popped in to ask, "if we're going to meet."

Grear said the boy was a member of his scout troop. "They're going to take the course next," he said.

Clark said any group wishing to take the course can contact him at Quaker Oats to make arrangements or get further information.

What the Doctor Ordered

With the slogan, "Washington needs a doctor," volunteer campaign worker Jack Scott of 333 N.W. Ninth St. will be getting Dr. John Grady's name before the Florida electorate in a somewhat unusual way.

Scott will be touring the state in an ambulance, loaned by Terry Moss, embalmed with signs urging Floridians to vote for Grady in the U.S. Senate race in the general election Nov. 6.

"Washington needs a doctor and John Grady is the prescription," Scott said Monday. "Grady was the first statewide candidate in Florida's history to get on the ballot by petition, so the people have a clear choice in November."

Scott said he is a retired welder and said he has been a volunteer worker in Grady's campaign since Grady announced his candidacy.

Scott said he would stay in Belle Glade long enough to vote Tuesday and then he would make a "practice run" through Labelle, Arcadia, Zephyrhills, Wauchula, Moore Haven, Lake Placid and Okeechobee in a swing around Lake Okeechobee.

Members of Beta Xi Hold Cocktail Buffet

Members of Beta Xi and their husbands and guests climbed their second step on the "Stairway to Happiness" when they gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pease on Sept. 14 for their annual cocktail buffet.

Following this year's theme of Beta Sigma Phi, "Stairway to Happiness," the centerpiece for the buffet table featured a black spiral staircase surrounded by yellow carnations, designed by Mrs. Pease.

Each step will be reached during this year's socials with the ultimate goal being the top step where the words "Stairway to Happiness" are printed.

Many delicious and assorted dishes were featured on the buffet table, some of which included: Sausage on the hill-side, assorted cold cuts, cheeses and relishes, crab claws, chicken livers, lasagna, cheese balls, deviled eggs and hot clam dip. Crockett, Mr. and Mrs. Don Flehs, Mr. and Mrs. George and Mrs. Ken Buchman, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Bill and Mrs. Tom Bushee, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Painter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Orsenigo, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Conley, Mrs. Joe Bob White.

Eat to Heart's Content

Eating to your heart's content can be delicious, say the Heart Association, and they plan to prove it with "The Heart of Cooking."

The low-fat, low-cholesterol cooking demonstration will be held Tuesday, Sept. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Florida Public Utilities (FPU) auditorium, 1000 South Military Trail, West Palm Beach.

Veal scallopini, broiled marinated fish, colache, dilly bread and carrot nut rolls are among many tempting dishes to be served. Most of the recipes will come from the new American Heart Association Cookbook.

"This cookbook, a 412-page hard-backed book, is being offered at a special price for those attending the demonstration," Mrs. Alice Buell of FPU.

"The Heart of Cooking" is sponsored jointly by the Nutrition Committee of the Heart Association and Florida Public Utilities.

The program will be conducted by Mrs. Buell, a home economist, and Mrs. Margaret Damas, R.D., the Heart Association's dietitian.

"In addition to preparing the low-fat foods, we will provide many cooking tips to make heart-health easy and delicious," Mrs. Damas commented.

Those wishing to attend should make reservations by calling the Heart Association office at 655-8155 or 278-7222.

CADILLAC MOTOR CAR DIVISION

CADILLAC 1975 Then and Now...an American Standard for the World.

And what a standard it sets for 1975! There's the brilliant new six-window Sedan deVille, on the right. The bold new Eldorado Convertible, left, with that great profile. And seven other new models in the tradition of our 1973 Phaeton and other great Cadillacs of the past. Including a sleek new Coupe deVille. A magnificent new Fleetwood Brougham. Exciting new Calais with youthful plaid interiors. And new special edition cars for that special touch of elegance.

Efficient as it is elegant. The best overall operating economy in years is one of the benefits of a series of advancements we call The System. Included is the Catalytic Converter, a new device that does its job of emissions control outside the engine—rather than inside—making it possible to recalibrate the engine for smoother overall performance. Another vital link is our High Energy Ignition that delivers higher voltage to fire marginal fuel mixtures under adverse conditions.

Additional benefits. All this, combined with the use of unleaded gas, a "lighter" torque converter, steel-belted radial tires and other advancements adds up to the best Cadillac performance in years as well as reduced maintenance and lower overall operating costs. Longer intervals between service. And cleaner air for everyone.

Our feature attraction. Consider that Cadillac 1975 has an array of standard features unsurpassed in Cadillac history. Including Automatic Climate Control, a six-way power seat, AM/FM radio with automatic power antenna (signal-seeking stereo on Brougham and Eldorado), lamp monitors, steel-belted radial tires, power door locks and tinted glass.

For your added pleasure...there is an inviting selection of other new features available. A glass dome Astroroot. An illuminated entry system for nighttime convenience and security. An air cushion restraint system. A reclining front passenger seat in Eldorado. And shortly after introduction, Electronic Fuel Injection will be available on all models.

This year, slip into something really comfortable...any 1975 Cadillac. The ride is smooth and quiet. Interiors comfortable and sumptuous.

When second best isn't good enough.
